Terms of Use

We welcome the use of the articles on this website for personal study and group discussion. The thoughts and conclusions in each individual article build on one another. Therefore, we encourage you to read each text in its entirety to avoid any misunderstanding.

You may download, save, print, copy and distribute the articles on this website in a complete, unchanged form for private, non-commercial use. In the case of distribution, please indicate the source as <http://www.christians.eu>

To prevent the improper use of our texts for purposes with which we do not agree, we kindly ask you to email us your request for permission if you wish to use any part of this site in a written publication, a public broadcast, public lecture or on another website. You can find our email address on the Contact us! page.

Privacy

You can visit our homepage without providing any personal information about yourself. We ensure that if you write to us, your email address will not be given to any third party and you will not receive any spam from us.

Our website runs Google Analytics, a free web analytics service provided by Google Inc. as a third party. For a detailed description of the service and its privacy policy, see <http://www.google.com/analytics/>

Google Analytics records and analyses the traffic on our website. We use the analysis for optimizing and developing our website.

You can cancel the web analytics data collection by disabling scripts in your browser. However, if you do, you will also disable some other functions of our homepage such as the email webform.

Links

Feel free to link to our homepage or any of the pages on our website.

Our website contains links to Internet sites owned and maintained by third parties. We have no control over and take no responsibility for the content of third-party websites. By providing these links, we are not necessarily endorsing, adopting or agreeing with any of the content of the linked sites.
